

Hey guys,

This is just a quick how to video showing you how I would use this list and how I would set up a listing using one of these products.

Okay, so first we have this Smart Mirror Flip Case for the Samsung Galaxy.

I found this product on Aliexpress.com. This is the website I'm on right now. As you can see, this product costs anywhere from .01 to .97 on Aliexpress.

And when I searched for it on eBay, using the phrase "Smart Mirror Flip Case For Samsung Galaxy" here in the search box, I found that most sellers were selling the item for around $7.

That's a fair markup for a product like this. The first listing, here, says there are over 1,333 sold, so if you pay .97 for each item, and then sell it for $7, even after fees you're still looking at making around $4 to $5 per sale. That may not seem like a lot, but as you can see, this person has already sold over 1,333. Multiply that by $4 and you've got $5,332 dollars.

Not bad for a single item. And remember, you've got 20 other items, plus the bonus 10 you can sell, too!

Okay, so let's click on this listing and take a look at it.

They've sold 11 in the last 24 hours. Not bad. Oh, and if you look down here, it says they've sold a total of over 14,000. So the entire total of what they've sold of this item is far more than just 1,000. If you sold 14,102 units at a profit of $4 you're looking at $56,408. That's net profit. That's money directly into your pocket. That's great.

Now that we've got that all out of the way, let's talk about how to set up your own listing.

And as I always say, finding the product is the hard part. Setting it up is the easy part.

All I would do, is basically take the content from this listing, and use it as my own. Now, don't take the content and use it word for word. You need to edit it a bit.

Start with the heading and just copy and paste it into your listing, but just change maybe one or two words. That's it. Then you've got your heading.

Then, look at the specifics, and try and make sure your specifics are very similar.

What you're trying to do is make sure your listing is very similar to the listings of items that have already sold well. That way, when someone searches for the item, your chances of being found are greatly improved.

Okay, for the description, they have some images and then they have the text. You can do one of two things here. You can copy and paste the description from this listing. Just make sure that you edit it so that it's not word for word.

OR, you can go back to the Aliexpress listing and just copy their description text and paste it into your listing. if you do it this way, you don't need to edit it. You can use the text exactly as it is.

You can also click on the "Specifications" tab and copy that text and paste it into your listing as well.

So, after you've got the heading, description, and the specifics finished, you'll need images of the product.

That's simple too, just use the images from the Aliexpress listing. Download them onto your computer and then upload them, as is, to your eBay listing. Use as many of them as you can.

The aliexpress images are professionally created and they look great, so that will help sell more of the item for you.

Then, once you're done with the images you can set the rest of the listing up. As with most of my listings, I'd set it up as a Buy Now, not an Auction, with a price that's competitive with the other sellers. So I'd probably list it around $7. And since you get free shipping to the US from Aliexpress, I'd offer free shipping on your eBay listing.

Now, in terms of delivery, you can do one of two things. Once your eBay customer pays for the item you can then purchase it from Aliexpress and instead of adding your address, you'd add the address of the customer. That way you're just the go-between, or the middle man.

The other option, would be to order some of the product yourself, and then once you have them in your possession, list them for sale on eBay. You can also contact the store owners on Aliexpress and talk to them about purchasing the product in bulk. You may even get a better per unit price if you do that. Just make sure you sell a few before purchasing any item in bulk.

Okay, well, that's it for this video. If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to send me an email. I'll get back to you as quickly as I can.

Alright. Okay. I'll talk to you soon.
